

---

Clouds Second Report

Cara Medd

April 25th 2018

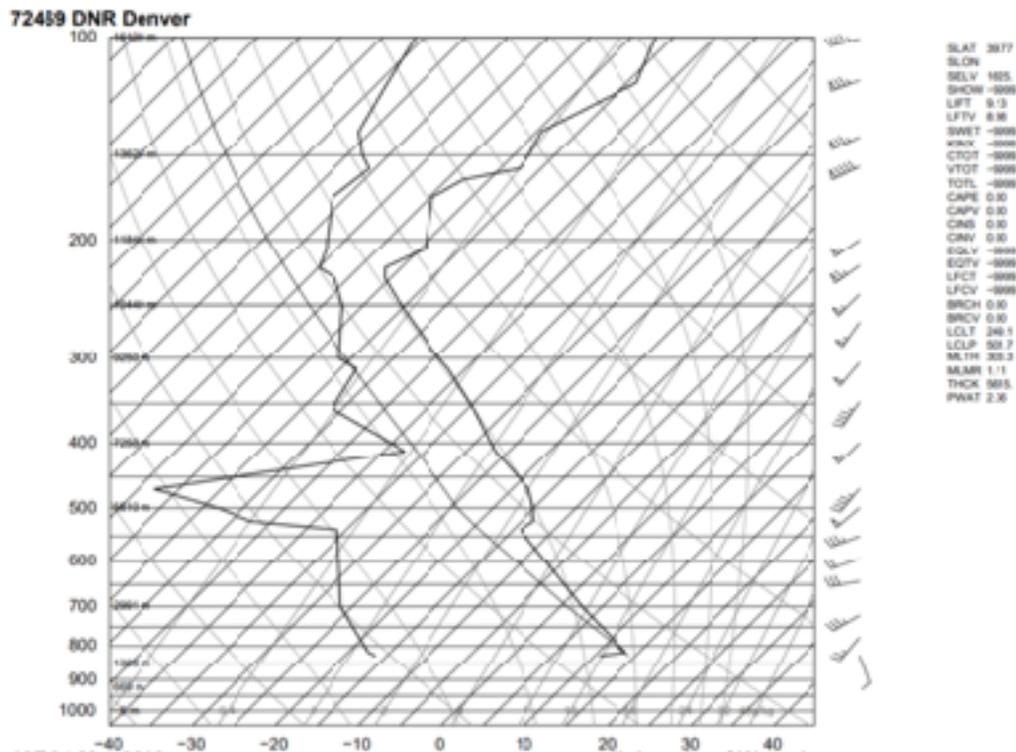

---

---

Introduction

This report details the Clouds Second Image assignment. I had taken several different photos of status clouds but liked this one the best because of the picture as a whole. I took this photo on March 28th during sunset at 5:43 pm. The clouds present in the image are stratus clouds. Below is the skew T plot, showing that the atmosphere was stable. The sun was mid sky and there was no wind. Besides the clouds imaged, the sky was clear. There were no drastic changes in the weather during the few days surrounding this image.

---

Post Processing

The final image was changed a lot. I brightened the colors the most I could because the sunset was so vibrant - it's always hard to capture how amazing they really are. Although I wish the clouds were more centered in the photo, this picture worked because you can see them dusted on the side. Below is the original photo, which is less colorful and less vibrant.

