

08 Critique day

Friday, September 14, 2018 12:00 PM

Today
Team behaviors
GW Critique!

Best to sit with your team
- Plans due Friday evening

<https://www.colorado.edu/libraries/2018/08/28/mell-multimedia-equipment-lending-library>

Available for checkout in Norlin Library: DSLRs, video cameras, tripods, etc

Team Behaviors

This American Life #370 Ruining It for the Rest of Us.

Bad team behaviors: The Jerk, The Slacker, The Depressive

The cure: solicit input from everyone.

<https://www.thisamericanlife.org/370/ruining-it-for-the-rest-of-us/prologue-0>

Please listen to the first 12 minutes. The best part is at the end, after the next story is introduced, but before it begins

In-Class Critiques:

- 1) Log in to FlowVis.org
- 2) Gallery>2018 Fall Get Wet
- 3) For each image, try to make three comments:

1. Art, b) Flow and c) Technique.

Constructive criticism:

Include aspects you like, but BE HONEST and SPECIFIC. What did you like and why?

OK to balance with suggestions for improvement.

It's easy to criticize, but being able to articulate the strengths of a colleague's work is an extremely valuable skill. Then instead of criticizing, ask about choices; why was it done like that?

See Critique Suggestion sheet.

Reminders:

Don't forget to post original, unedited images in Canvas,
plus high resolution final images

Don't save edited as JPG for Canvas, OK for FlowVis.org

If you are revising work, deadline is last day of class

December 12, unless you negotiate for a later one. Quality is critical.

See Report Guidelines document on FlowVis.org

Citations: Be sure to put direct copy of text in "quotes" and cite source. TA will be checking.